

Complex world. Thoughtful church.

Christ Is Risen !

What does Good Friday look like in your life? Who is Resurrection for you?

April holds the holiest days of our faith life this year. We will gather around basins of water, plates of bread, cups of wine, a gnarled cross, and an empty tomb before month-end. As we move through these sacred stories and liturgies, we invite you look for the sacred around you—at home, at work, on a walk, in your relationships and conversations, around our congregation and through our porous walls. As you're able, send us photos that look like Good Friday and Easter. Those with identifiable people in them should include permission for us to share these pictures through social media and our newsletters. We hope this invitation will spark faith connections as you move through your days and build our community connections as we share with each other little glimpses of faith in the world. Send pictures with description and date to photo@ulch.org.

Complex Call Process, Thoughts for the Interim

According to one of our local weather reporters, “Winter is experiencing a ‘Minnesota Goodbye’ this year.”

The liminal relationship between Winter and Spring in Minnesota is a great metaphor for interim ministry, especially now that the Call Committee is active. Interim ministry is a season of lingering in doorways, not yet passing into the next space, not going back to where we used to be.

With the Call Committee, the congregation now eases into a more intense time of discernment. When I took my first interim position, the concept of discernment felt vague and individualized to me. Walking with several congregations has helped deepen my understanding and experience with discernment. Someone shared a pamphlet with me that offered this concise description of discernment as, “a time of prayerful paying attention in order to be more cooperative with God’s activity.”

That still takes some unpacking, doesn’t it? I have found a “theme verse” for discernment in the book of Jeremiah helpful: Thus says the Lord: Stand at the crossroads, and look, and ask for the ancient paths, where the good way lies; and walk in it, and find rest for your souls. Jeremiah 6:16

In Bible studies and preaching, I often use this verse as a three-part guide to understanding discernment; Discernment is communal, considered, and connected.

Discernment is communal/cooperative: It’s not something we should or really can do on our own. The Lord who speaks is both one/three; and in listening to these ancient words, we are connected to people and practices that stretch across countless generations.

Discernment is considered: To stand at the crossroads and look is an invitation to do things thoughtfully, using all the tools available to us collectively.

And finally, discernment is connected: in asking for and following the ancient paths we connect with the stories and wisdom found in the Bible, confident that the ancient words are still speaking to us today.

Collectively, we trust that God cares more about the outcome than we even do. I suspect that’s why Jeremiah describes finding rest for our souls. Typically, when there are big things to be sorted (like calling a new lead pastor), we expect it will take a lot of hard work. And the harder we do the work, the better we expect the result to be. The hard work of discernment, however, is always shared with God. We’re offered rest for our souls, trusting God cares more about this congregation and the outcomes of the next few months than even our most anxious hearts.

However long the Minnesota goodbye is, we know that Winter will give way to Spring, just as surely as we know this interim time will lead to a new season of leadership and growth for Hope. Thank you for walking this anxious time together, and keeping the call process in your prayers.

In Hope and with hope,
Interim Pastor Susan

A Prayer of Hope for the Call Process (from the synod website)

Gracious God, you have blessed and sustained us for many years and have given us life together in this Christian community. Be with us now, we pray, in this in-between time. Bless us and guide us as we prepare for the next stage in this congregation’s life. Give us courage, patience, and vision; and strengthen us in our Christian vocation of witness to the world and service to others, through Jesus the Christ. Amen

Children's Ministry

This year in Children's Ministry we will have opportunities for three different age groups to build relationships and deepen their faith at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday mornings:

Birth-3: Join with other families with young children in the nursery for a time to play and connect. This is a casual gathering. A story and snack will be shared and there will be lots of free-play time.

Pre-K - Grade 1: This group will meet to learn Bible stories, explore nature, and build relationships in a small group environment. A snack will also be shared.

Grades 2-6: This group will meet to connect Bible stories and faith practices together, beginning to think about how we connect our faith to the rest of our lives.

On Easter Sunday, April 20th there will be no Sunday School - If you are not already receiving emails (they don't come too often), contact Pr. Maria to get on the list. You can also contact Pr. Maria (mariaa@ulch.org) with any questions.

Leadership Opportunities - The children's ministry team is looking for volunteers to support the planning and facilitating of the ministry with our youngest members at Hope. This could include being on the Children's Ministry Team, teaching Sunday School, leading a family gathering, or something else! Contact Pastor Maria if you'd be interested or would like to know more.

April Sunday Forums

We will be experiencing quality, not quantity for April's presentations. We do not have a forum on Easter morning and there won't be a forum on the Sunday of the Bach Cantata. Our committee will be hosting coffee that morning, encouraging all to focus on the cantata.

April 13 - Stories of Hope: Our speakers will be Lynette Lamb and Jason Lukis. This forum series has been a favorite for years. As we listen to faith journeys of Hope members, we develop a deeper appreciation for our amazing congregation. Many have told us that we should have "Stories of Hope" more than our twice yearly offering because it enriches their lives so much.

April 27 - Doctrine of Discovery and University Lutheran Church of Hope: Jessica Intermill is a land history consultant with over 15 years of experience as a treaty rights and tribal law attorney. Jessica will share with us her research on how the Doctrine of Discovery was applied to the land our church building stands upon and the treaty that ceded this land to the United States government. Jessica's research and presentation was funded by a grant from the ULCH Trust Board. See Racial Justice article on page 6 for more detailed information.

Bible and Brews April 21st at 6:30pm

Exactly what it sounds like: bring your Bible, your favorite brewed beverage, and a penchant for laid-back but totally engaging conversations about faith, scripture, and current events. We meet the 3rd Monday of each month from 6:30pm to 8:00pm. Watch the Thursday Epistle or contact the church office for the meeting location.

April Fellowship Meal to be the Easter Breakfast

The Fellowship Meal for April will be the Easter Breakfast on April 20. We will serve breakfast from 9:00 to 10:15 a.m. We are seeking egg dishes to be donated. If you can bring an egg dish contact Sheila Hougen (shougen03@gmail.com) or watch for the signup sheet at the welcome desk. Our youth will be helping to serve and donations for the breakfast will go towards summer programming for youth. Come on Easter Sunday to share conversation and food with others. Thanks,

Sheila Hougen

Thank you from Rosalie Eldevik

Thank you for all your cards, flowers, meals, visits, words of encouragement and, most of all your prayers, these last months. All these have been a source of much strength and a beam of sunshine for me on the road to recovery. I have felt and continue to feel God's love through this special community.

With much gratitude and love, Rosalie Eldevik

Bread for the World Offering of Letters

On Sunday, March 16 the Hope Congregation held their annual Bread for the World Offering of Letters. Sixty-eight letters were written to our lawmakers in D.C. urging them to strengthen and fund international and national hunger programs, like SNAP (once known as food stamps). And to reinstate USAID from which most global food programs come. Twenty-three letters were written to Senator Tina Smith, twenty-two to Senator Amy Klobuchar, fifteen to Representative Ilhan Omar, seven to Representative Betty McCollum and one to Representative Angie Craig.

If you missed an opportunity to write a letter, you are welcome to call the church office for a sample letter. Thank you for your advocacy. It makes a big difference when those who represent us hear from us.

Donna Neste, Hope in the World

Story of the Land Where Our Church Building Stands

The Racial Justice team is moving forward with our Land Acknowledgement Initiative. In February's open discussions with members of the congregation, we brainstormed possible next steps for action. One small step is to learn the story of how our land (where the church building stands) passed from the hands of the Dakota people to the US government and from there into the hands of private land developers. To accomplish this, we have contracted with Jessica Intermill to research our plot of land. This research was funded by a 2025 Hope Trust grant.

Jessica Intermill is an attorney and a land history consultant. On her company's website she writes, "As an attorney, I've fought for tribal nations' treaty rights in court and advised them in governance work for more than a decade." Her clients "are individuals and organizations who want to look under their homes, schools, businesses, and congregations to understand the circumstances that formed the history of the land they stand on ... Learning your land history is an opportunity to learn about yourself."

Jessica will present her research at the Adult Forum on April 27. She will also tell us about actions we can take, including the Mni Sota Makoce Honor Tax which she created in collaboration with the Lower Sioux Indian Community.

We are looking for a great turnout, so be there!

Hope Book Club

Sunday, April 13, 2025, 7 p.m. - Via Zoom - Apeirogon, by Colum McCann

“Bassam Aramin is Palestinian. Rami Elhanan is Israeli. They inhabit a world of conflict that colors every aspect of their daily lives, from the roads they are allowed to drive on, to the schools their daughters, Abir and Smadar, each attend, to the checkpoints, both physical and emotional, they must negotiate. Their worlds shift irreparably after ten-year-old Abir is killed by a rubber bullet and thirteen-year-old Smadar becomes the victim of suicide bombers. When Bassam and Rami learn of each other’s stories, they recognize the loss that connects them and they attempt to use their grief as a weapon for peace.” Apeirogon | Colum McCann

The Presidents Report

Hi, nice to meet you. Where are you from? Where did you go grow up? Where do you work? Where do you go to school? Where do you live? You’ve heard all the questions and maybe asked them as well. We fall into familiar patterns and phrases without realizing it. And too often we compose our own answers instead of listening for a complete response. I’ll admit that I’m complicit in this scheme. I grew up in NE Minneapolis in a large Catholic family, attended Catholic school through eighth grade, and then landed in public schools—Edison H.S. and the U of M. I’m the only one of my siblings who is an active Christian—in a Lutheran community! My story isn’t so unique, I know, but this community is. I felt welcome from the day I met this community. And I hope you did as well, and I hope you will welcome a visitor too. And the next. And the next. Listen to their stories. Listen and listen and listen. And they will find community too.

Where are you from? I’d love to know.

Thanks to Pastor Susan for inspiring this piece. See you in church.

John Pignatello, Congregation President

Treasurer’s Report

Thank you for your patience during this time of transition. We are diligently working on catching up all transactions and reporting so we can come back to you - the congregation, the ones who make all our activities possible - with a complete set of financials and details on how we are doing financially. Thank you for your understanding. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Prayers for Turtle Island

Displayed in Hope's kitchenette, and visible from the lounge, is this bold piece called Prayers for Turtle Island by Jackie Traverse, an Ojibwe artist born in Winnipeg, Manitoba and from the Lake Saint Martin First Nation. Her paintings, drawings, documentaries and sculptures are inspired by the Anishinaabe culture and her experience of being an Indigenous woman. In this buoyant image, Traverse illuminates her people's prayers for the wellbeing of the earth, symbolized by Turtle Island.

Suspended in watery blue, a totem-like sea turtle's circular shell is overlaid with a metaphorical garden where life is vibrant and abundant, intricate and interrelated, flourishing and harmonious. The turtle's right fin bears an eagle's tail feather, symboling the messenger who travels between the earthly world and the spirit world to carry the prayers of humans to the Great Spirit—Kitchi-Manitou—and the dwelling of the ancestors. In its left fin, a burning smudge stick braided with cedar, sage, sweet grass and tobacco envelopes Turtle Island in all directions with ethereal bellows of pure white smoke, symbolizing sacred ceremonial cleansing to generate healing and summon protection for the earth and all of its plant and animal inhabitants.

"THE STORY OF TURTLE ISLAND varies among Indigenous communities, but by most accounts, it acts as a creation story that places emphasis on the turtle as a symbol of life and earth..."

"In some Ojibwe oral traditions, the story of Turtle Island begins with a flooded Earth. The Creator had cleansed the world of feuding peoples in order to begin life anew. Some animals survived the flood, such as the loon, the muskrat and the turtle. Nanabush (Nanabozo) (or Weesakayjack in some Cree tales)—a supernatural being who has the power to create life in others—was also present. Nanabush asked the animals to swim deep beneath the water and collect soil that would be used to recreate the world. One by one the animals tried, but one by one they failed. The last animal that tried — the muskrat — was underwater for a long time, and when it resurfaced, the little animal had wet soil in its paws. The journey took the muskrat's life, but the creature did not die in vain. Nanabush took the soil and put it on a willing turtle's back. This became known as Turtle Island, the centre of creation."

Minneapolis ISAIAH Gathering with First Congregational April 6th, 12-1:30

What is your vision for the city of Minneapolis? All are invited to join with our friends and neighbors at First Congregational Church to share our dreams and visions for the city of Minneapolis. As ISAIAH charts a direction for organizing in this next season, come to share what issues matter most to you. We will gather at Hope and friends from First Congregational will come to join us in this important conversation. Contact Pr. Maria with questions or to let her know you plan to come.

New Members at Hope

On March 30th we welcomed three new members at Hope! If you run into Ryan, Alex, or Kristin make sure to say hello and introduce yourself!

Newsletter and Thursday Epistle Experiments

We will be experimenting with format and frequency of communications for the next few months. The current format of a weekly Thursday Epistle and a monthly Visitor have a lot of overlap in content and are not reaching a significant percent of the community. They also require a significant effort to produce. We'd like to freshen up some of the format and create more predictable and accessible announcements. This will take some holy experimenting. Please send us your feedback (use this email ulch@ulch.org), and give us an extra measure of patience as we fiddle with the best way to share all the great things about our life together at Hope. Thank you!
