Thoughts From Pastor Amanda Simons

Come and follow me, Jesus says to the fishermen at the Sea of Galilee. They drop their nets and follow him.

As I was reading this scriptural story from the Gospel of Matthew in preparation for preaching, my mind continued to go between two stories: One by a fisherman of our Minnesota lakes, a member of Hope. The other of Alex Pretti using his body as a shield to protect another person, and the subsequent response of our Minneapolis community with the outpouring of neighborly love, candlelit vigils, and calls for accountability and repentance (change).

One of the highlights of being a pastor is when people share themselves with you through stories and pictures. One of our Hope members is a fisherman who recently enjoyed an ice fishing expedition with friends. With a big grin, he weaved together tale after tale as he showed me pictures of fish he caught. How could one respond but with joy at such an infectious spirit and narrative? Later, in my office, I found myself reflecting upon fishing and my family's visit to the North Shore Commercial Fishing Museum Tofte. Fishing is a lot of hard work and takes a lot of persistence, preparation, waiting, and repairing. What gifts did the fishermen apply from their occupational calling to their vocational calling as followers of Jesus? What can we learn from fishing as we contemplate on Jesus' words "you will be fisher of men"? What does it mean to take what we've learned and experienced to come and follow him, especially in this moment of life?

As I said responded yes to the call to action for the Movement Chaplains to be present for people at the site of Alex Pretti's death, I had a moment of fear and doubt. What will be the cost of my discipleship, of saying yes to Jesus' invitation to come and follow him? What does it mean for us to say yes to loving God and loving our neighbor in these heavy times of violence and fear tactics by our own federal government towards its people?

As a chaplain that day, I witnessed people gathering with tears and voices calling for change. I witnessed neighbors helping neighbors by holding hands, carrying signs like "Love Thy Neighbors", serving hot coffee, handing out water bottles and cleaning off tear gas from people's clothes. I stood beside a Somali-American woman who shared her story with me, telling me that she was a naturalized citizen, her children were birthright citizens, and that what was happening in this country was wrong, and that she was there as citizen to exercise her rights and mourn the death of Alex Pretti. I prayed with a Jewish woman who recognized my stole as a marker that I was clergy. Together we prayed for God to break open the hearts of the pharaohs of our land. I met so many people who were showing up because they believe in something more than just themselves and their own self-interests.

I do not think Jesus' call to us is an easy one, especially in these current political times. I wonder what we can learn from his first disciples, from the fishermen, about how to apply both the knowledge and skills of fishing to discipleship, as well as the knowledge, skills, and lived experience of our own occupations and vocations to this deeply missional calling to love God and love our neighbor as ourselves.

What are you bringing forward into your call as a disciple for these times? And what are you letting go of?

For me, I am humbled by knowing that I now understand the scripture from Holy Week and Easter when the disciples are locked in the room for fear. As best as I can, I am trying to answer the call to come and follow Jesus and trusting that Jesus will enter in and give me the gift of peace as he did for his earliest disciples. I am not sure what it all means, however, I am grateful to share in our vocational calling as disciples together.

In gratitude, Pastor Amanda Simons

Lent is a season in our annual Christian liturgical calendar, in between Epiphany and Easter, in which we journey with Jesus towards the cross, remembering our own human mortality and navigating the complexity of the injustices of our world while faithfully saying yes to Jesus' discipleship call. This Lent we will journey together with the theme All In. Jesus shows us what it means to be all in as followers who love God, love our neighbor, and love ourselves. Using resources from Barn Geese Worship, we will ponder together how God is all in for us and we will go all in for God's love for us and all people and creation.

Using the Revised Common Lectionary, each week we learn more about God's commitment to us and explore topics like repentance, creation, wonder, and relationships. Each week's scripture invites us into new considerations and commitments. We will worship together Sunday at 10:30 am in the Sanctuary.

Weekly Themes:

Ash Wednesday: All In for Repentance

First Sunday in Lent: All In for Creation

Second Sunday in Lent: All In for the Unknown

Third Sunday in Lent: All In for Wonder

Fourth Sunday in Lent: All In for Relationship

Fifth Sunday in Lent: All In for Letting Go

Palm and Passion Sunday: All In for the Highs and Lows

Easter Sunday: All In for Resurrection

For this reflective season, we also invite you to join our community on Wednesday evenings at 6:30 pm in the chapel for Holden Evening Prayer or Prayer Around the Cross services. These services will be no longer than half an hour, with space in the chapel for individual prayer and reflection following worship.

February is Brief, but Forums Remain Strong

February 1: Treasurer's report by Jack Dant - This will be another forum in which the speaker will be zoomed into our gathering. Jack will be traveling but has graciously volunteered to present his treasurer's report while he is on the road. The last time we did such a forum was when Pastor Mark Hanson moderated while he had a speaker from the Middle East.

February 8: No Sunday Forum. Annual meeting following worship.

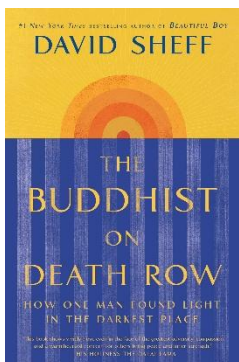

February 15: "The Devil Hates a Good Tune." - Tim Gustafson will talk about his songwriting philosophy and approach to music composition. He will also play some of his songs. As you probably know, he wrote an entire liturgy for our congregation. Come and be inspired by his amazing talent and his willingness to share.

February 22: Food Justice - Uli Koester - As a continuation of one of our ongoing themes for forums this year, we are grateful for our own Uli Koester to share his vocation dedicated to nutritional education. Previous forums have addressed concerns about food insecurity, and Uli will present an expanded view of what food justice means--especially for the consumer. In light of the sad news of the continued withholding of funds for SNAP in Minnesota, this presentation should give us a glimmer of hope for the future.

President's Report

My term as interim president is soon ending, which means I will acquire a title that I trust is unique in the annals of church bureaucracy: interim former president. Vice President Kelly Brooks will assume the role of president in February. I will remain interim former president until a few months from now, when our president in absentia, John Pignatello, returns from his time in North Macedonia and formally takes up the role of former president. (And looking back over that paragraph, I believe no one in human history ever wrote those words until now.)

As I prepare to switch roles, I want to offer a few thoughts about the times we are living in. You don't need me to blather on about how awful they are; you know as well as I do. But I do want to recall the meaningful role the church played in my life during an earlier time of upheaval – roughly the period between the 1968 assassinations of MLK and RFK and the 1970 shootings of demonstrators at Kent State.

I lived in Akron, Ohio, which was convulsed by riots a few months after the assassination of Martin Luther King. The Ohio National Guard was called out, and for a time we lived under something that felt like martial law – helicopters overhead, a nightly curfew, armed soldiers in jeeps patrolling the streets. Two years later, the shootings at Kent State, 15 miles away, felt very much like the murder of Nicole Good. Even as teenagers, my friends and I felt threatened, encircled and alienated.

Two churches in my orbit – my own Lutheran church downtown, where my dad was a pastor, and an Episcopal church in our neighborhood, where my best friend's family worshiped – helped create a sense of safety. We could hang out there. There was a cool priest who organized an outdoor Eucharist with Girl Scout cookies and Kool-Aid. We held folk services. The church offices had tables stocked with pamphlets from the American Friends Service Committee and the War Resisters League, and they offered advice on how to establish a record of conscientious objection that could help us beat the draft.

Now I recognize that those days helped create in me an instinct to cling to the church in dangerous times. As I hear helicopters hovering in my neighborhood and read the awful accounts of shootings and predation by government thugs, I hope that our church can be a source of comfort for people who feel threatened. We might make some lasting friendships – maybe even with a future former interim president.

In Christ,

Eric Ringham, Interim Congregational President

Treasurer's Report

December Financial Highlights

- General giving for December came in at $160K; a very strong finish to the year. YTD totals are $625K, 109% of the budgeted giving.
- Total Income YTD reached $822K, or 109% of the budgeted goal. This number includes general giving, PEASE Academy rent and rental income.
- Expenses YTD totaled $742K, at 99% of YTD budgeted spending. Great thanks to the staff, V&G Board, and Facilities Team for their conscientious attention to spending.
- Ministry areas (Education, Hope in the World, Worship, Relational, and Youth & Young Adult) have continued their excellent work living out our mission in their specific areas, and are being encouraged to fully utilize allocated funds in 2026.

The December numbers are in and we have finished the year on a very strong note – both in terms of giving/income, and controlling spending. The many efforts that our leadership team, Catherine, and Pastor Amanda have undertaken to understand and regain control of our financial operations have had a strong, stabilizing effect. I'd like to offer a special thank you to Past President Linda Herman for her support of this and MANY other areas of need – her work and insights have been invaluable. All of this, combined with the strong response to our fall pledge drive, has allowed for the successful development of a balanced budget for 2026. We look forward to a new year of visioning and rebuilding, with knowledge that we stand on a strong financial foundation.

Please consider attending the Adult Forum on Sunday, February 1 to learn about Hope's financial status and the proposed 2026 budget. Thank you again for your faithful support of our community and mission.

If you have any questions, please feel free to email me at jackdant@comcast.net.

Best regards, Jack Dant, Interim Treasurer

Life Events

We're a community called to hold one another in prayer in every season—in our deepest need and grief, and in our experiences of new life. Here are a few of the life events affecting our community. We need your help to know for what we can pray. Please alert a pastor or contact the church office. We include in prayer...

Welcoming children and Baptisms—We pray for all who await and welcome children through joyful and challenging times.

Marriages—We pray for all those preparing for marriage, and for all relationships of commitment.

Deaths— We pray for God's strong embrace for all who grieve deaths and losses, those that are recent and those that were many years ago and whose memories fill us especially in this holiday season.

Significant Illness—We pray for those living with illness, cancer, recovery, uncertain diagnosis, hospice, chemical dependency and other addictions, and mental health struggles. We also pray for caregivers.

We pray for all who are impacted by new beginnings, separation, divorce, retirement, moves, graduations, and the civil rights movements of this time trusting in God's love, grace, and guidance at all times.
